

Communicating with Storytelling Micro-credential

Offering micro-credentials will help us focus on:

The development of He Kura Moroiti mō Waka Kotahi | The Micro School of Waka Kotahi will support our learning strategy, uplift our people and underscore the importance of learning.

We will look at partnering with local and international universities, skills organisations, wānanga, and accredited providers of micro-credentials.

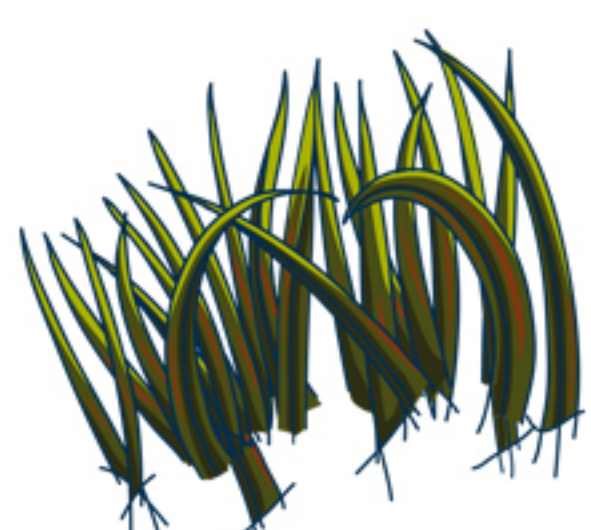

For He Kura Moroiti mō Waka Kotahi | The Micro School of Waka Kotahi to be successful, we need to examine our current and future skill gaps.

The first pilot programme will be launched in Kōanga (Spring).

Why storytelling?

Storytelling is found across many cultures and peoples. It cultivates our own history and has been used for centuries to pass on knowledge, beliefs, values and life experiences. It is one way to record our past and pass on lessons for the future.

Stories grow empathy and understanding, connecting people so they can hear/listen to each other and find better ways to work together.

It empowers people to use stories to inform, motivate, inspire and get buy-in. Storytelling also aligns to Te Kāpehu | Our Map and Pā Harakeke | Our Leadership Capability Framework.

Course expectations

Max 4 hours learning a week

Blended learning - social learning, online modules, webinars, mentor check-in sessions

People Leader check-in sessions

Final assessment to be submitted for micro-credential to be issued

Course learning outcomes

Apply the skills of listening to others' stories, accepting and providing feedback with respect and empathy | ngākau aroha

Demonstrate and apply the components of strengths-based storytelling to communicate, collaborate and engage with others with compassion and respect | manaakitanga

Use stories to strategically translate workplace objectives into meaningful action to develop team relationships and engagement | whanaungatanga

Demonstrate the ability to tell stories effectively and impactfully to build partnerships and understanding with the wider community | kotahitanga

