TAKE CHARGE OF YOUR CAREER

Take control of your future – confidently navigate a changing career landscape

The days of a steady, stable careers are over. Organisations have become flatter and more networked. The pace of technology is relentless, making many skills go out of date in only a few years. Jobs are continuously evolving. People change organisations after shorter periods of time, or simultaneously work on contracts across a range of organisations. While organisations still offer a broad range of career opportunities, we need to think and act differently to spot new opportunities and create them. The great news is that in today's connected world you have more opportunity than ever to take charge of your own career. Take matters into your own hands and equip yourself to navigate an ever-changing landscape.

This is perfect for

Professionals who desire to carve out their career by continually adapting, reinventing and reskilling themselves.

Organisations that want to retain and more effectively utilise existing talent by encouraging and equipping their people to develop their career within the organisation.

The participants will leave with:

An understanding of the changing career landscape

The ability to spot and create new opportunities

Two vital practices to super-charge their career

An approach to build a personal safety net to face career development with courage and confidence
